CDKN Response to Enquiries

Designing a National Climate and Environment Finance Mechanism for Rwanda

Project Ref: TAAF-0033

Date: October 2011

This document summarises the answers to all questions received by CDKN Procurement before the allotted deadline in relation to the project TAAF-0033 'Designing a National Climate and Environment Finance Mechanism for Rwanda'. No further questions will be answered on this project.

The deadline for all suppliers to submit their expressions of interest remains 17.00 UK Time 14 October 2011. Please ensure all expressions of interest are submitted electronically to cdknetwork.procurement@uk.pwc.com.

QUESTION: How many months do you foresee the design phase taking?

RESPONSE: We would expect suppliers to provide an implementation plan in their final proposal. At this stage we envisage the design phase would take between 3 and 5 months.

QUESTION: By taking on this first stage of the project to define the terms of reference and tender documents for establishing and operating the first phase of FONERWA, would a supplier disqualify themselves from the second phase?

RESPONSE: Participation in the first stage would not disqualify a supplier from also delivering stage 2. However if an open tender process is chosen for stage 2, no special treatment will be given to the supplier for stage 1.
