

WESENE

The elderly lady

You are an elderly woman. You used to farm with your husband, but now you are widowed and your land on the edge of the town is being tilled by a tenant. However, farm yields are decreasing and they are not paying as per their agreement. Your children live far away: they work in Addis Ababa as domestic workers, and send you money from time to time. You are getting very old and now walk using a cane. Your neighbours try to help you with household work, but the support doesn't cover all aspects of your needs.
